

The resurrection of Jesus is at the heart of the Christian message. Death is called, in scripture, 'the final enemy', and it completes the final and eternal victory of Jesus. It is that victory that our hope lies. 'by your cross and resurrection you have set us free...Dying, you destroyed our death, rising you restored our life...' The only thing we are sure of is that every single one of us is going to have to take that final leap of faith that we call death. When Jesus bowed his head on Calvary he trusted the Father to catch him, as it were. He returned, and spent forty days with his apostles to impress on them that he had overcome death, and there was no longer any gamble or uncertainty in it for them. We already share in resurrection, as we await our own entry into the fullness of that new and eternal life. (Source: These might help – Bishop Joseph Cassidy) Fr. Michael Carey

Easter Sunday of the Resurrection of the Lord

Details in today's Gospel encourage us to think of the resurrection as the gift of God's love. The cloth around Jesus' head – so carefully mentioned – takes us back to the raising of Lazarus and the words of the witnesses, "See how he loved him!" (Jn 11:36). It is the disciple whom Jesus loved who first comes to faith. In a word, coming to resurrection faith is a movement of the heart, that is, letting ourselves be so loved by God and loving in return.

Prayer - Compassionate God, love stands at the heart of all you do for us in Jesus. Open our hearts, that we may truly rejoice in your love for us. Lead us to newness of life by loving even as we have been loved. (Source: St. Paul's Missal)

Easter Sunday

What does Resurrection mean?

"The Lord is truly risen, alleluia"

Newsletter, Sunday 16th April 2017

The Church celebrates Easter, not just for today but for fifty days, over a period that's called 'The Great Sunday'. Why? What does the Resurrection mean?

- It means that this person, this extraordinary person Jesus of Nazareth, who was nailed into timber, hammered into the ground, buried under stone, put death completely into reverse and rose to new life. Death is so prevalent, in our experience so final and irreversible, that it really takes beating. He beat it.
- It means that the Resurrection is not just an historical fact, it's a continuing experience. We do not say 'Christ rose'; we say 'Christ is risen'. He is risen now. 'Where two or three are gathered in my name...' He is present in his Spirit – in his Word, in the Mass, in Holy Communion, in the Sacraments, in other people. He's here as our inspiration, our Saviour and Lord.
- It means that Resurrection is ours. It's not just a personal achievement on Our Lord's part. It's a public company in which we all have shares. And according to himself, the cost of a share, the price of a share, is faith. Not uninformed swallowing of everything, but a basic if sometimes faltering faith in him, 'I am the resurrection. Anyone who believes in me, even though that person dies, will live' (Jn 11:25).
- It means that life is not a dead-end. It's not a cul-de-sac. We've all met situations in life, indeed in our own community, where people died young, in an accident perhaps or from an unforgiving disease. Life can be so uneven, and death is so indiscriminate, that we need something to balance the scales. That something is the Resurrection. You need it to round things off. It's the one thing that rounds off our jagged existence. And God 'will wipe away all tears from their eyes; there will be no more death, and no more mourning or sadness or pain. The world of the past has gone' (Apoc 21:4)
- Resurrection means that we should be improving things now. Resurrection cannot be for the sacristy. It has to be for society, a risen world. An Easter people can never be complacent in the face of poverty, injustice and starvation.

It is to be hoped that the Resurrection will be recognisable in its familiarity, that we'll welcome it not because it's new and different but because it's something we've already begun to know.

ADMINISTRATOR'S COLUMN

Antiphon – The Lord is truly risen, alleluia

Resurrexit sicut dixit

'He has risen as he said'. Risen Lord, kindle again in our hearts the fire of faith. May we be bearers of the light and joy of Easter faith to all whom we meet. The Lord is risen – he is risen indeed. Alleluia!

Easter Sunday

Our Easter celebration calls us to seek to strengthen our belief that new Life comes from an empty tomb. Our Easter celebration calls us to seek encounters with the risen Lord and believing that we in turn can be that presence of new Life for others. Our Easter amazement does not centre so much on whether or not we believe in Jesus' resurrection – we do! Our amazement is over the fact that we can encounter the risen Lord ourselves, that Jesus' new life is our own Life, and that he works through us to bring his risen Life to others

Easter Blessing

On behalf of myself, the Priests of the Parish, the Parish Sisters, the Parish Staff and the Parish Pastoral Council, I would like to extend to all Parishioners of St. Colmcille's Swords and Our Lady of the Visitation, Drynam and readers of this newsletter, the grace and blessings of the Easter Season. Happy Easter – the Lord is Risen. Alleluia

A sincere thank you to all who helped with the packing and the distribution of the Easter Cards

Easter Dues

Flowers

The flower arrangements in the Sanctuary for Easter Sunday are beautiful and involved hours of work. I sincerely thank the flower ladies: Marie Brophy; Martha Gallagher and Barbara Sweeney

The Gift of the Spirit

Jesus returned to the Father and sent the gift of the Holy Spirit. Jesus promised to baptise with the Holy Spirit and with fire. This promise was fulfilled on the feast of Pentecost. The blessing of Pentecost is a perennial gift to the Church. In baptism we receive the sunless of the Holy Spirit; in Confirmation we are strengthened by the Holy Spirit. Our vocation invites us to fan into flame the fire of the Spirit. God's love is poured into our hearts through the Holy Spirit (Romans 5:5) and we receive the forgiveness of our sins. Through the gifts, charisms and fruits of the Holy Spirit we witness to being children of God. (source: Walk with me – Easter 2017. Alive publishing)

Death overcome

As long as the sun comes over the hills, scatters the darkness, and fills the world with light; as long as the fields get green again, and the primroses and violets return; as long as the trees fill up again with leaves, there is hope for us and for the world. So come, let us follow the footsteps of spring, for the snow has melted, and life is awakening from its sleep and wanders through the hills and valleys. Come, let us ascend the heights and gaze upon the waving greenness of the plains below. O come, let us rejoice on the Easter Day, for death has folded up hid tent and gone away. (Source: Fr. Flor McCarthy, SDB)
